THE FOLLOWING VERSE IS FROM THE MANUSCRIPT OF JAMES L. LAMAR'S NEW BOOK, AND IS ALSO GRAVED ON A MELANCHOLY TABLET AT LONG MOUNTAIN. IT IS INCORPORATED IN HIS NEW BOOK.

Here sleeps in peace a mother's joy, a son's life.

The living keenly feels the blow,

God! when my earthly race is run,

Restore to me my darling son!

A Coming Crash—A Prophet of Evil.

Not since the war broke out have shamed their been so many with speculation. Speculation is rampant, and men are fairly mad with the gambling mania. But there are uneducated speculators who have yet to learn how to trade on the market, and who are on which they have dashed their all.

Men of capital are standing aloof from the madness of the hour. They confidently predict a crash that will be more sweeping than anything New York has known in this century. A gentleman of large means called upon one of our largest and most successful brokers this week, told him he had $100,000 to invest, and said to him:

"What would you advise me to do with this money?"

"I would advise you to buy gold,"

said the broker, "and ask that man," said the broker, "he knows as much about it as I do." Such is the general feeling among shrewd and experienced capitalists.

The speculation in real estate the past year has been astonishing. Prices have reached a figure that it is impossible for them to maintain. A broker in the city in 1863, lived in a house on Fifth Avenue, and took a lease for $3,000. That was considered a high price for it.

In January last he underlet the house at the rate of $8,500 a year, semi-annually in advance. He is now traveling in Europe on the gain. A house was sold last November for $30,000, and the owner is grumbling

over the loss of $10,000 on the sale, as he had bought it for $20,000. Who have given him $20,000 for it? Most have sold their houses and homes, and asking what they supposed to be a exorbitant price for their property, and finding themselves suddenly taken up

One man offered a house that cost him

$16,000 for $25,000. His offer was immediately taken up. When the papers were drawn they were made out for a third party, to whom the second party has sold at an advance of $10,000. An Editorial Notice.

The editor of this paper will be absent from his station for a few weeks, but congratulates himself and his readers that he leaves the Union in able and competent hands. Should opportunity for correspondence offer during his absence, the Union will be happy to communicate frequently with the people through the Union and the Union will be addressed to the Editor of the Union, Camp Douglas.

The News, etc.

The Editors write thought must in quantity, still confidence in the character, and it is reasonable to suppose, that a short time will bring us the amount of the final collapse of the great rebellion—a result long fought for, forever prayed for, and which will, when accomplished, present us, as a nation to the world, in a position of history by any Government that ever existed. Now that the final issue is no longer in doubt, we can afford to wait, the result being foreseen; and however dependent may be the lives of the plant in this agency, we are too well aware of the powers of our Government, and the thoroughly equipped of the community effort and ability with which our arms are blessed, to allow any misgivings to cloud our mind, even though to us (unacquainted as we must necessarily be, with the particular details of the work to be accomplished) the time should seem long and the work protracted.

With a return to the blessings of peace will come a fall in prices for commodities, a demand for labor, an impulse in every branch of industry, and finally, though by no means least important, the funding of the larger portion (if not all) of the immense issue of Government Legal Tenders, which, having then fully answered their purpose, will be thus withdrawn from circulation. Many branches of business which have languished or been entirely lost sight of during the war, will speedily be resumed, and such is the recuperative energy of our country—our countrymen and the Government which rules the one and protects the other, that in a few years, no outsider would be able, otherwise than from history, to discern that our land had been the theater of the most appalling battles and horrid devastation that ever occurred before under the sun.

The question as to the treatment of the revolted States is yet to a certain extent, in abeyance, and though there be high legal authority to the contrary, for our own part we cannot otherwise than think that such States so voluntarily and by a square vote seceded in the beginning, and when no compulsion existed, have thereby abdicated their sovereignty as States, and now appear in the light of provinces, in which the territorial governments should be set up and maintained until they could legitimately re-enter the Union as States. The very names and memories of them as States should not, and we hope yet to see the day when their names, as well as those of the prominent traitors resident in them, will be universally assigned to such infamy that a man would, as a matter of choice, baptize his son by the name of Judas Iscariot rather than Jeff Davis, or his daughter Zerabel rather than Virginia. As to the individual arch conspirators, an aristocratic form of government suits them best; for that they have fought, or incited others to fight, and such of them as are not caught, tried for treason and promptly hanged on conviction, ought to be made fully aware that the ensign of the stars and stripes has no hook or ear under the shadow of its protecting folds, where traitors can thrive or rebels batten.

Our Excursions. There reach us with most refreshing irregularity, and while we sometimes get but one or two for a number of days, we again have avalanches of anticipated numbers, as to date. What has become of the London Age? We have not seen it for some time, and news from our sister Territory are welcome news down here.

A number of the army recently landed at this Camp, of which there are various leads last discovered in Rush Valley, West Mountain Mining District, we said to have proved extremely rich, but as we have it only from hearsay, we cannot vouch for the exact proportions per ton. By the way, if those interested would furnish us with the particulars of the assays actually made and verified, we should always take great pleasure in publishing them, as a matter of interest to the community in which we reside.

General report that the discovery of the Rush Valley as yet, overtops all the other discoveries, but in speaking of any matter of such importance, we like to speak by the book, and we cannot in this case do so, not having seen the assays and not being able to vouch for their accuracy. A Star towards Immortality.—We are informed that a silver lead in Esqui-Camin (of course it is one of the richest in that rich region) has been mined in our honor. We are duty bound to the person compliment paid us by the imaginative discoverer of that ledge, and would have returned him our sincere thanks had he not accompanied the announcement with the somewhat equivocal statement that we could rest assured that "if our name does go down to posterity it will be in connection with the name of the discoverer."

We are inclined to think that that "let us out" is a bit of a misnomer.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.—It will be seen from the notice of the Commissary of Subsistence, in another column, that the advertisement for proposals to furnish fresh beef to the troops at Camp Douglas has been withdrawn, and that no bids for that article will be received, other arrangements having been made. Proposals for other supplies will be opened on the 10th of June. In accordance with advertisement. It will be seen, also, that all bids are required to be in duplicate, and bidders will please bear that in mind.

COURTS MARTIAL.—A general Court Martial, of which Colonel Rob't Pollock, 3d Infantry, C. V., is President, and 1st Lieut. and Adj't, J. C. Morrill, 3d Infantry, C. V., Judge Advocate, met at this Post on the 17th, and will probably be in session here for two or three weeks. A general Court Martial is to convene at Fort Raby, N. T., about the beginning of next month for the trial of Assistant Surgeon, J. A. Brown, and 3d Lieut. Edw. Ingham. Of this latter Court, Lieut. Colonel Williams, 1st Cavalry, Nevada Volunteers, is President, and Capt. M. G. Lewis, A. A. G., District of Utah, Judge Advocate.

DEPARTURES.—Capt. Hempstead, C. S., left yesterday for a brief absence in the country. We trust we shall hear from him occasionally as to the signs he sees, and we probably will, as the Captain is one of those who

"Eye nature's walks, whose folly as it lies,
And catch the manners living as they rise."

BALTIMORE NOW AND THEN.—On the 6th of April the State of Maryland voted by a very large majority in favor of holding a Convention to amend the Constitution and forever prohibit slavery. In Baltimore the majority was 9,000. Nine thousand majority in favor of freedom in a city which, in 1861, was one of the rankest dens of treason, where plans were laid for the assassination of the President elect, and the soldiers of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, marching to the defense of the National Capital against the slavery conspirators, were fired upon by the mob, encouraged by the wealthiest citizens, and aided by the city authorities. Baltimore presents the best example of thorough reformation anywhere to be found in the Union.—Stockton Independent, May 14.

WASHINGTON, May 20th.

Dispatches from Gen. Grant to 81 this morning, state that an attack was made last evening by Ewell's corps to turn our right, which was promptly repulsed by Birney's division and part of Warren's troops that were on the extreme right. About 300 prisoners fell into our hands, besides many killed and wounded. There are on our side over 600 wounded, 150 killed and missing. Grant says, probably the killed and missing are over stated. Over 25,000 reinforcements have been forwarded to Grant.

Dispatches from Sherman, dated Kingston, 10 o'clock last night, state that during the day he had pushed his column beyond that place in pursuit of Johnston as far as Cassville, and that there was skirmishing in the latter part of the day with Hardee's corps. No reports from Butler.

Gen. Hunter has been placed in command of the department of Western Virginia including the Shenandoah valley.

Latest dates from Gen. Canby at Vicksburg. The Red river was then blockaded by the shore batteries of the enemy at different points, but measures were taken by him which are believed adequate to clear the river of all obstructions and enable him to reach Alexandria, when he will take command of the army.

Signed: STANTON.

The two per cent. tax on mines remains in the tax bill as reported to the Senate.

NEW YORK, May 21st.

The order suspending the World and Journal of Commerce is revoked, and they will issue, as usual, on Monday.

Herald's correspondent with Butler's army, dated 18th, says two heavy columns of the enemy have been discovered passing down the pike towards Petersburg with large trains. Gen. Foster was sent out with a force to destroy the trains, if possible, but the enemy met him in such strong force that the purpose was abandoned. The enemy are actively engaged in repairing the railroad, and have concentrated a force of 25,000 with which, not only they hope to keep open Lee's communication, but also to crush Butler.

CINCINNATI, May 21st.

Sam McAdary was arrested on an indictment for alleged conspiracy with parties arrested here some months ago to overthrow the Government of Western Virginia.

A correspondent says Gen. Crook's command is slowly falling back after accomplishing most thoroughly its object. He has destroyed a large amount of supplies and damaged the East Tennessee Railroad beyond repair for fully three months.

Gen. Jenkins, who was wounded and captured, has since died.

At a hotel in New York, recently, an old gentleman came down stairs and inquired of the clerk whether he had any tallow candles. Being informed that he could be supplied with tallow dips, the gentleman said: "Then you will give me some. I want something that I can blow out, for I've been blasting away at that cursed figger in my room till I've no wind left."

We are glad to learn that Sol. P. McCurdy, late Judge of the Western Court of Common Pleas, has been appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for Utah Territory. The appointment could not have been conferred upon a worthier man.

Judge McCurdy is a native of Logan county, Ky., but has been a resident of this territory for many years. He came here when the Platte Purchase was little else than a wilderness, a young man without fortune or friends, and by his talents, energy and industry has not only identified himself with our progress as a people, but has won a competence and long enjoyed the confidence of his fellow citizens. Since the present civil war began, the Judge has ever been recognized as an uncompromising Union man, and he never wavered in his devotion to the Government of the Union.

President Lincoln has made a good selection, and we feel assured that Judge McCurdy will in Utah, as he has in Missouri, win a host of friends and wear the Judicial ermine with dignity and honor. We congratulate the people of Utah that they have so good a Judge, and we regret that Missouri loses so good a citizen.

Judge McCurdy leaves for Salt Lake City in a few days, and will bear with him the best wishes of his numerous friends.—Platte County (Mo.) Sentinel, May 5th.

RISE IN EATING-HOUSE PRICES AT NEW YORK.—The New York Tribune of 16th April says:

In consequence of the advanced price of provisions and other necessities of life, the proprietors of all the down town restaurants and eating houses have been obliged to raise their prices, and contemplate increasing them still further on all meats, vegetables, and pastry. The first advance was made by restaurant keepers in adding five cents to the price of many of their dishes, and charging ten instead of six cents for a piece of pie. The eating-house keepers whose establishments on account of their cheapness are extensively patronized all day long, have held out for a long time, but are now compelled to ask an advance, or lose money. On account of the high price of beef, sirloin and tenderloin steaks, which heretofore were charged at 15 and 25 cents, have been advanced to 30 and 40 cents. Wheat cakes, for which the demand was very great, have been raised from 5 to 10 cents—the advance being made not so much on account of the increased price of flour, as the rise in butter and molasses. In many of these establishments, butter, which has been placed in the most lavish manner upon the tables, has now been entirely removed. Recently only one piece of bread has accompanied a 10 cent dish, but even with this curtailment the proprietors find that they are losing money and contemplate raising their 10 cent list to 15 cents. On all dishes to order advances of 5 to 10 cents have been made. Pies, puddings, coffee and tea, will also be raised from 5 to 10 cents. The advance that has thus far been made does not seem to have met with any particular disfavor, as all of these places are still crowded at the usual hours of breakfast, dinner, and tea.

A woman out West has been carrying on a rather strange confidence game in Milwaukee, Green Bay, etc. She dresses in male attire, marries some young lady, and then decamps with the bride's money.

"Sally," said a fellow to a girl who had read hair, "keep away from me; you'll set me on fire." "No danger of that," said Sally, "you're too green to burn."

THE FAMOUS BARTLETT "DIAMOND WEDDING."—People have not forgotten the famous "Diamond Wedding" in New York, at which a Miss Bartlett, who gained herself away to the highest bidder—who was a mulatto from Cuba. The editor of the Milwaukee Wisconsin from Havana writes as follows on the subject:

It will be remembered that when the Cuban Oviedo married Miss Bartlett of New York, it was termed, on account of its lavish gifts, "The Diamond Wedding." Has it resulted happily? As I was in the cars by the Gaines route to Matanzas, it occurred to me that Señor Oviedo had plantations near that famed Pan of Matanzas. Fortunately I found people who knew something of the Señor. One thing is certain, he is immensely rich—not so wealthy as Aloma, but still his property is counted among the millions. What of him? We do not hear much good. He is reported to have an extensive harem of his slaves, and in the pituitive father of twenty-five or thirty yellow pichaninies. To speak in brief, he was called in "old wretch." His young American wife is represented under different aspects—some say she is contented, other that she is miserable. My own conviction is that she has plenty of money to spend, and is not likely to be very miserable—as she married for money, and that reality he has for Oviedo's plantations are superb. She has no child of her own—but can turn her attention to Oviedo's yellow children. From what I learned I came to the conclusion that Oviedo's social position is not equal to his wealth—that is, even his enormous wealth does not assure him of his wife's cordial reception among the first society of Cuba.

UNSEEMLY EXTRAVAGANCE.—A man builds a marble stable on the rear of his lot, at a cost of eighty thousand dollars, and fits up a private theater over it. Another pays eight thousand dollars for a pair of horses to drive on the road for his pleasure; and many give from fifteen hundred to three thousand dollars for the same object. Another provides a dinner for a dozen friends—rejecting the old superstition of the unlucky thirteenth—and this simple dinner costs one thousand dollars.

A children's party is given, in an up-town house; where every child is clad entirely in dresses imported from Paris. An American citizen purchases a house for over one hundred thousand dollars, and tears it down to rebuild upon its site one yet more costly.

These are signs of the times—are they not evidences of a state of things unhealthy, feverish, threatening to the honest simplicity of our political life; and threatening not less evil to the ideas and the principles of which that life has hitherto been a fair exponent?

What business have Americans at any time, with such vain show, such useless magnificence? But especially how can they justify it to themselves in this time of war?

HUSBAND IN THE ARMY.—A lady of our acquaintance advertised a few days since for a governess, and among the many applicants was a sable female, who said she had read the advertisement, and was of the opinion that she could fill with acceptability the position. The lady declined her services, but informed the daughter of Africa that she was in want of a cook. This latter announcement appeared to offend the applicant, as she instant to draw herself up to a straining point and exclaimed, "Me a cook! let me tell you madam, that I do not work as a cook now. My husband is in the army."—Baltimore paper.

GOLDEN RULE.—No language can express the misery of a child, starved by his intellect and impoverished by his heart. There should be no economy in education. Money should never be weighed against the soul of a child, but should be poured out like water for the child's intellectual and moral life. [Dr. Channing.]

To avoid the evils of inconsistency and versatility, ten thousand times worse than the blindest prejudice, we have consecrated the state, that no man should approach to look at its defects and corruptions but with due caution; that he should never dream of beginning its reformation by its subversion; that he should approach to the faults of the state as to the wounds of a father, with pious awe and trembling solicitude. By this wise prejudice we are taught to look with horror on those children of their country who are prompt rashly to hack that aged parent in pieces, and put him into the kettle of magicians in hopes that by their poisonous weeds and wild incantations they may regenerate the paternal constitution, and renovate their father's life. [Edmund Burke.]

THE FAMOUS BARTLETT "DIAMOND WEDDING."—People have not forgotten the famous "Diamond Wedding" in New York, at which a Miss Bartlett, who gained herself away to the highest bidder—who was a mulatto from Cuba. The editor of the Milwaukee Wisconsin from Havana writes as follows on the subject:

It will be remembered that when the Cuban Oviedo married Miss Bartlett of New York, it was termed, on account of its lavish gifts, "The Diamond Wedding." Has it resulted happily? As I was in the cars by the Gaines route to Matanzas, it occurred to me that Señor Oviedo had plantations near that famed Pan of Matanzas. Fortunately I found people who knew something of the Señor. One thing is certain, he is immensely rich—not so wealthy as Aloma, but still his property is counted among the millions. What of him? We do not hear much good. He is reported to have an extensive harem of his slaves, and in the pituitive father of twenty-five or thirty yellow pichaninies. To speak in brief, he was called in "old wretch." His young American wife is represented under different aspects—some say she is contented, other that she is miserable. My own conviction is that she has plenty of money to spend, and is not likely to be very miserable—as she married for money, and that reality he has for Oviedo's plantations are superb. She has no child of her own—but can turn her attention to Oviedo's yellow children. From what I learned I came to the conclusion that Oviedo's social position is not equal to his wealth—that is, even his enormous wealth does not assure him of his wife's cordial reception among the first society of Cuba.

UNSEEMLY EXTRAVAGANCE.—A man builds a marble stable on the rear of his lot, at a cost of eighty thousand dollars, and fits up a private theater over it. Another pays eight thousand dollars for a pair of horses to drive on the road for his pleasure; and many give from fifteen hundred to three thousand dollars for the same object. Another provides a dinner for a dozen friends—rejecting the old superstition of the unlucky thirteenth—and this simple dinner costs one thousand dollars.

A children's party is given, in an up-town house; where every child is clad entirely in dresses imported from Paris. An American citizen purchases a house for over one hundred thousand dollars, and tears it down to rebuild upon its site one yet more costly.

These are signs of the times—are they not evidences of a state of things unhealthy, feverish, threatening to the honest simplicity of our political life; and threatening not less evil to the ideas and the principles of which that life has hitherto been a fair exponent?

What business have Americans at any time, with such vain show, such useless magnificence? But especially how can they justify it to themselves in this time of war?

HUSBAND IN THE ARMY.—A lady of our acquaintance advertised a few days since for a governess, and among the many applicants was a sable female, who said she had read the advertisement, and was of the opinion that she could fill with acceptability the position. The lady declined her services, but informed the daughter of Africa that she was in want of a cook. This latter announcement appeared to offend the applicant, as she instant to draw herself up to a straining point and exclaimed, "Me a cook! let me tell you madam, that I do not work as a cook now. My husband is in the army."—Baltimore paper.

GOLDEN RULE.—No language can express the misery of a child, starved by his intellect and impoverished by his heart. There should be no economy in education. Money should never be weighed against the soul of a child, but should be poured out like water for the child's intellectual and moral life. [Dr. Channing.]

To avoid the evils of inconsistency and versatility, ten thousand times worse than the blindest prejudice, we have consecrated the state, that no man should approach to look at its defects and corruptions but with due caution; that he should never dream of beginning its reformation by its subversion; that he should approach to the faults of the state as to the wounds of a father, with pious awe and trembling solicitude. By this wise prejudice we are taught to look with horror on those children of their country who are prompt rashly to hack that aged parent in pieces, and put him into the kettle of magicians in hopes that by their poisonous weeds and wild incantations they may regenerate the paternal constitution, and renovate their father's life. [Edmund Burke.]

Mrs. Partington says polygamy "is where men have an ad libitum privilege of marrying a plurality of wives."
